TRADING PLACES AT LEECHMERE INDUSTRIAL ESTATE

Leechmere Industrial Estate in Sunderland is an established trade counter location with longstanding trade occupiers including City Electrical Factors, Crown Paints, Eyre & Elliston and Beacon Electrical and it has been further boosted with the recent addition of Screwfix Direct, Ultimate Trade Frames, HTS and Eurocell Building Plastics Ltd.

With the estate fast becoming the place to be for trade operators, the decision was made to refurbish Block 7 by creating two 3,400 sq ft units with loading facilities and separate trade counter entrances. The units are located in a fenced compound with generous car parking in a prominent position on Leechmere Industrial Estate, fronting Carrmere Road.

Louise Elliot, Senior Management Surveyor at Whittle Jones North East commented "The configuration of this block enabled a trade counter layout which attracted Eurocell Building Plastics who moved into one of the units in Block 7 on a 5 year lease agreement."

The new branch of Eurocell features a showroom with a large trade counter area and stocks a range of products. Taking the total number of branches to 141, this is the third Eurocell branch in the Tyne-Tees region. Eurocell is the UK's leading manufacturer, distributor and recycler of PVC-U window, door, conservatory and roofline systems.

"There is a huge amount of work in Sunderland and surrounding areas so opening the branch gives customers much better access to our entire product range," said Phil Christie, Eurocell Regional Manager – North East. The branch is close to associated suppliers and is conveniently located, about two miles south of Sunderland city centre and less than a mile from the new Southern Radial Route which provides direct access to the A19 and the city centre.

SOCIAL MEDIA IN BUSINESS

Social media has opened up a whole new world for marketers, who are now able to communicate with peers, customers and potential customers in ways that would never have previously been imaginable let alone possible. Whether you use it as a tool to create personality behind your brand, to create relationships that you may otherwise never gain or to monitor what's happening in your wider market, the potential is infinite. But there are also challenges, risks and barriers to negotiate. Here are a few tips:

- Choose the right platform – there are hundreds of social media platforms, which means there are many options beyond Facebook, Google, Twitter and Instagram. Take the time to see which platforms are best for your business and limit them to 5 maximum.
- Use analytics – there are hundreds of tools to analyse your social media campaign successes and failures. Use them.
- Post timely – know the best days and times to post for your industry and demographics. For many businesses, this is Monday – Friday at around 10am and 4pm.
- Build a relationship – don't just preach at your audience, engage them, get them involved and always promptly reply to outreach.
- Use images – People are becoming more attracted to images such as infographics or easily digestible videos.
